Ar. Shafer asked the juror if he knew that Capt. Stephanson had been indicted for receiving four baskets of peaches and a barrel of apples.

"No, sir. I didn't know that."

"You heard that he received a check from Ryan, a boxmaker?"

"Yes. I think I did."

"Didn't you know that Capt. Stephenson was stationed in Harlem when he is alleged to have received that brite?"

"I don't know anything about it."

"Well, the fact is, you believe that all the Captains whose names were mentioned before the Lexow Committee were guilty of the charges made against them and were corrupt, do you not?"

"I think that most of them were. But not all."

Shafer's Tactics Outlined.

The line of questioning taken up by awyer Shafer indicated that the task of pelecting a jury would be a long one, and that every effort would be made to isqualify talesmen on account of the pinions they had already formed from eating the testimony taken before the exow Committee.

Lexow Committee.

After several more questions, Mr. Hayward finally said he believed that the whole Police Department was rotten and corrupt, and that the fact that Capt. Stephenson had been dismissed by the Police Hoard was pretty good sydence in his mind that there was something in the charges. Still he hought he could hear the testimony in the present case and give an impartial verdict.

"I'm a square, honest man," he said.
"I'm a square, honest man," he said,
"and I think I could do the right thing."
While he had an impression, he said, he had no prejudice against Capt, Steshenson. He did not believe all he read n the newspapers, and because a man was scored he saw no reason to believe itm guilty until he had been fairly tried. Shafer Expects to Be Scored.

"I expect to be scored in the papers before I am through this trial," remarked Mr. Shafer, looking towards the reporters' table, but he didn't say why. Col. Fellows accepted Mr. Hayward, and Justice Ingraham overruled the challenge of the defense, and Mr. Shafer challenged peremptorily.

Francis J. McKeon, a house-furnisher, of Thirty-third street and Eighth avenue, woh was next called, said he had proved no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant on the particular charge in the indictment, as he had only just heard it.

He had no extended acquaintance among the police, and only knew one y just heard it.

The Commissioner arrived in this city yesterday morning from Buffalo, and, although he refused to see reporters, it was said by his friends that he had come back to fight the case against him as hard as he could.

Lawyer Louis J. Grant, who is Commissioner Sheehan's counsel, said that the indictment against the Commissioner would be declared illegal.

CLEVELAND'S MONEY PLAN.

Not Indorsed, but to Be Considered by Finance Committee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.-Recent ents leave little doubt that the financial question is to be a prominent topic in the Senate during the present session, and there are some facts which point to a state of affairs which may render the session one of great interest. It is understood that the instructions of the Democratic Senatorial caucus do not go grets. The Next Encyclical Will Define His Powers

The Pope Working Earnestly Upon the Document.

Will Be Addressed to the Needs of the Church in America.

(Special Cable Despatch to The World.) ROME, Dec. 2.—An influential Car-linal assured The World correspondent o-day that the expected encyclical to the American Bishops would be completed within the next three days, and was likely to be published about the end of the year.

(Special correspondence of The World.) ROME, Nov. 29.—The expected Encyclical of Leo XIII. to the Bishops of the United States is still the subject of much speculation in ecclesiastical circles of Rome. The completion of the docuof the Oriental Patriarchs, which lasted for three weeks. Now, however, that the Pope has more leisure, he has again resumed work on the Encyclical. The Apostolic Delegation at Washing on is not the only subject which the Pope will deal with. It may, after all, not be the chief object of the document. I have just interviewed a Cardinal regarding the Encyclical.

AN EMINENCE ON THE ENCYCLI-

"The Encyclical," said His Eminence "will be devoted to the whole religious situation in the United States. The Pope has sent messages of this sort to almost all the lands and peoples of the Catholic world. But there are still some countries to which he has not yet pecially addressed himself. Among the umber are England, the United States nd South America.

"It is the purpose of His Holiness to end Encyclicals to each of these. Just now it is the turn of the United States, n which the Pope has always taken a leep interest."

CONCERNING THE DELEGATE, In answer to a question as to what the Pope was likely to say about the Washington Delegation, the Cardinal "The Holy Father will probably sup port it vigorously. He will give public expression to his resolve to maintain and sustain its action. It has repeatedand sustain its action. Whether this is true or not I do not know. I hardly think, though, that the Holy Pather will adopt this course without an exhaustive study of the questions likely to be affected, and until he has weighed well the logical result—which would be to abolish the present status of the United States as what is called a 'missionary country.'

"For all that, there is nothing impossible to the present distance of the complete success. Covers were laid for fifty the the reported plan.

A PAPAL BULL IS NEEDED. "It is highly probable that the Holy the general and vague outline of the Sovereign Pontiff's will in the matter. His orders on the subject cannot be announced in an Encyclical. A Papal bull or an Apostolic Constitution are required to give his will effect.

"As to the date on which the Encyclical will be issued, nothing has yet been decided. It may be published at Christmas, or it may not be issued until January or February next. One can never be quite sure upon such points with Leo XIII. Like all conscientious not have done as wisely or as well as he would have desired to. There are fifteen entries in the second race, and a number of them are fair class horses. The two-year-olds in the third race will go well, and the nine-fur ong race, last on the card, will send a very fair lot to the post. The entries and selections are as foi-
